'Treasures of King Tut' scheduled for first Indy visit during 50th anniversary Flower & Patio Show

INDIANAPOLIS – Named King of Egypt as a child. Dead before his 20th birthday. This is a story of legends and history. And it comes to life during the 50th Anniversary Indiana Flower & Patio Show.

"The Treasures of King Tutankhamun" exhibit is heading to Indianapolis for its inaugural visit during three days of the 50th Anniversary Indiana Flower & Patio Show at the Indiana State Fairgrounds' West Pavilion and Toyota Expo Hall.

During this March 14-16 "show within a show," guests will be able to view over 250 museum-quality replicas of the fabulous treasures that were entombed with the infamous boy-king. Admission to this exhibit is free with the purchase of an Indiana Flower & Patio Show ticket.

The exhibit has been more than 20 years in the making. Using the talents of top Egyptian artisans and sculptors, the Egyptian Art Center in Cairo, Egypt has produced these magnificent replicas of the treasures with care and precision, giving guests a glimpse into the Golden Age of the Pharaohs. "The Treasures of King Tutankhamun" has played to rave reviews worldwide – including those of several US presidents.

Additional information about the exhibit is available at www.egyptianartcenter.com.

Indiana Flower & Patio Show admission is $10 per person; children 12 and under are free. There is no additional cost to view the King Tutankhamun exhibit. Hours on exhibit days are March 14 & 15, 10 am to 9 pm; March 16, 10 am to 6 pm.
